Moonshine's Bright When $20,000 Cargo Is Dumped

SOUTH BAY — Little did City Patrolman Frank Cline expect, as he went to check last Saturday on a truck accident — a not uncommon occurrence hereabout — that he was to uncover a moonshine haul valued in the "retail" market at more than $20,000.

But, as Cline's official report points out, "While making an investigation of the accident, I detected a strong odor of moonshine whiskey" about a 10-wheel van cab-down in a deep ditch.

"From the left side in front of the van body I saw a clear liquid leaking from the truck. In checking this by smelling and tasting it, I knew that it was moonshine whiskey," Cline continued.

He arrested the truckdriver, who gave his name as Jerry Buser, and sent a hurry-up call for federal and state alcohol tax investigators. After they arrived, the Miami-bound van was opened, and therein were 1,115 gallons of non-tax-paid whiskey, in five-gallon metal cans and glass jugs.

Informed sources estimate that by the time a cargo that size is sold for home consumption, cut with water or some other liquid, it would bring $23,625. The going "factory" price is $10 per five-gallon jug according to current reports, and the price at the "wholesale" point is about $35 per five-gallon jug. In one word, from point of loading, when the "manufacturer's" price was an estimated $2,250 for that size cargo, it would increase through risk and the middlemen to the $20,000-plus figure at point of home consumption.

Mrs. 'Hooks' Passing Another Link Severed In Pioneer- Present Era

BY MRS. A. H. SCRUGGS

CANAL POINT — Another link between pioneer America and the modern age was broken in the past week with the death of Mrs. Lillie Hooks, 86, the daughter of a Georgia circuit rider, who came to Canal Point in 1923.

Mrs. Hooks died Saturday in a nursing home in Lake Worth where she had been a patient since November. Although she had been blind for several years, she was active until two years ago, when she fell and broke her hip, confining her to bed.

One of the oldest residents of Canal Point, Mrs. Hooks was the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Fred Flanders, of Johnson County, Ga., now Wrightsville, Ga. She lived under the administration of 17 presidents. Her (Continued on Page 8)

Pahokee Appraisal Starting

PAHOKEE — The first step of the survey leading to reappraisal of property for tax purposes has been completed here, and the next phase of house-to-house and business-to-business checking has begun.

Hunnicut & Associates, of St. Petersburg, has completed revision of the city tax maps, according to City Clerk Dorothy Graham, and Monday the canvassing crew began work.

Harry Kulick, of the Hunnicutt staff, has spent the past three weeks at work on the tax maps. Sam Cook, supervisor, Wayne Montgomery, Hugh Brathwaite and several other men are now working house-to-house. Mrs. Graham said.

The men visit each residence to gather information on its construction and interior, making rough sketches of each house. This will be followed by a similar survey of business property. Each dwelling or place of business checked will then be classified by structure, including depreciation, according to Cook.

The crew is working approximately 15 houses per man per day. Completion date for the citywide appraisal will be around June 1, the supervisor said. Bacon Point Rd. was the first area covered by the crew this week.

The local study was approved by City Council last September, and was followed by negotiations, signing of a contract with Hunnicutt, and presently the actual contact with local propertyholders.

BG Faces Manager Quitting

BELLE GLADE — "Conditions as they exist" within City Commission are among the reasons City Manager Clarence Robinson plans to offer his resignation at next Wednesday's Commission session, he told OBSERVER yesterday.

Robinson, who bespoke his intention to commissioners last week just a year since his taking over, Mar. 1955, has two offers awaiting him in New England. Both are at considerably better salaries.

The present city manager, hired after the controversial dismissal of the city's first manager, Tom Carle, has been the subject of considerable sniping by Commissioners Marvin Unwin and J. H. Livingston, Jr., during commission meetings as well as in routine city business.

The latter two, elected in September and replacing H. O. Carlton and Herman Close, have been at odds on most major commission actions with Commissioners Z. T. Ingram and Eugene Ellis. Mayor Walter Ashley has sided with Ingram and Ellis during many of the sword-point issues in commission.

After Robinson told the commissioners last week that he planned to offer his resignation, Livingston asked him to reconsider, he said, and Unwin indicated that he might favor a six-month contract for the city manager.

Robinson, whose salary is $8,500 annually, has told commission that he would remain for a year's contract and a salary rise to $7,200. He said that family obligations, including the responsibility of caring for an aged mother, precluded his continuing as city manager on a no-contract basis.

However, said Robinson, he doubts that he can continue in his job here unless commissioners are unanimous in signing a year's contract.

The city manager and commissioners discussed the situation at a meeting Monday night, with "inconclusive" results. The whole matter of the resignation and the counter-proposal will be brought up Wednesday night as part of the regular Commission agenda, Mayor Ashley said yesterday. "I hope the town will have 24 years' experience and it's doubtful we could get another man like him," Ashley said.

Ranging in age from 7 to 17 years, the girls enjoy a program of diversified recreational and educational activities led by volunteer leaders. INCOME TAX FACTS No. 4 Exemptions Cut Your Tax Bill

(This is one of a series of articles on federal income tax filing. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Accountants and the Florida Society of Certified Public Accountants.)

This year's redesigned tax forms make it easy for you to indicate the personal exemptions to which you are entitled.

Every taxpayer is entitled to one exemption, which means a deduction of $600. Those who are or have a taxable personal exemption, and all persons of all ages have an extra exemption. These rules apply to both husband and wife on joint returns.

In addition, you are entitled to one exemption for each qualified dependent, but the extra exemptions for age and blindness cannot be taken for dependents.

Rules for Dependents

- To qualify for an exemption a dependent must:
1. Have received more than half his support from you, unless you file a Multiple Support Agreement (see below). In figuring support, scholarships received by your child do not count.
 2. Have less than $600 gross income unless he is your child and under 16 or a student.
 3. Not file a joint return.
 4. Have been either a member of your household or closely related to you, as defined in the official instructions. Although cousins are not usually "close relatives" for tax purposes, a cousin receiving institutional care for a mental or physical disability who lived with you before going to the institution would qualify.
 5. Have been either a citizen of the United States or a resident of the United States, Canada, Mexico, Panama, the Canal Zone or in some cases a servant's child living in the Philippines.

Your exemptions usually depend on whether you and your dependents qualify under these rules at the end of the year. However, if your husband or wife died during the year you may file a joint return and take the same exemptions that both of you would have otherwise had. Similarly, if a dependent died during the year, the rules are

Be happy...go 'lectric!

Cookin's a breeze...and cool as a breeze...with a modern electric range! So much cleaner...and safer, too! It makes sense to go all-modern by going all-electric in your kitchen.

Be sure to include a completely automatic electric water heater—it fits anything! No vents, no flues, no fumes...and all the heat goes into the water, not into the room!

A tip to budget balancers: It's cheaper to go all-electric in your kitchen—laundry than to use a combination of fuels. Remember, electricity is —

- COOL...doesn't heat up the house!
- White-glove CLEAN...no soot or must!
- SAFE as electric light...and just as economical!

Political Pot On Simmer

The Palm Beach County political pot started to boil this week as a score of candidates filed for one post or another.

That the pot will seethe prior to the Mar. 20 deadline for county candidates seems a certainty.

Most hotly contested position thus far appeared to be the Group 1 representative to the state legislature, a post vacated when F. O. "Bud" Dickinson resigned to become a candidate for the state senate.

Four Democrats, filed prior to Tuesday's state office deadline to fill both the unexpired term and the full two-year term in the Group 1 race. They will be voted upon May 8. Should a runoff be necessary, a special election would be held May 22. The Democratic nominee will face the single Republican candidate in still another special election to be held on May 22.

Participating in the haul, and the subsequent dumping of all but 15 gallons of the "shine" into the North New River Canal, were Cline, South Bay Police Chief Marvin Davis, State alcohol tax agents E. J. Malys and G. E. Atchison, and U. S. Internal Revenue Agent Walter L. Kelly.
